AGS Ezine with a new look and original articles. If you would like to submit an article or comment on the new format, please email agscontributions@gmail.com

New State Historian and Director of the Arkansas State Archives Named

On March 21, 2018, Department of Heritage Director Stacy Hurst named Dr. Wendy Ritcher as the new state historian and director of the Arkansas State Archives (ASA). She is replacing former head Dr. Lisa Speer, who left in February. Richter is returning on May 14, to her “dream job.” She has spent her 35 year career in Arkansas working at the archives and Ouachita Baptist University. Richter holds a master’s in Public History from the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, and a master’s and doctorate in heritage studies from Arkansas State University.
During her last stint as director of ASA, Richter oversaw the transfer of the Southwest Arkansas Regional Archives and the development of Northeast Arkansas Regional Archives. She introduced workshops, at each facility showcasing the agencies staff and materials.

Richter also brought ASA into the 21st century by completely remodeling the facility, bringing in computers for researcher, made Ancestry.com available and replaced hand crank microfilm readers with reader printers. She also revamped the agency’s website, adding Documenting Arkansas, now known as the Arkansas Digital Archives, and finding aids to the website. There is no doubt that Richter will bring the same enthusiasm to the position during this tenure.
Social and consumer-to-consumer media like Facebook, Pinterest, eBay, and Google are woven into the fabric of our daily lives in Arkansas and across the world. As you use social media and also pursue family history, are you aware of the many genealogy discoveries hidden in social media themselves? Do you know about your own opportunity to carefully share with the worldwide genealogy community through them?

There are useful resources about Arkansas to learn about as well as those in other states and countries on Facebook. Genealogist Katherine R. Wilson of Ann Arbor, Michigan provides and updates a lengthy list of Facebook genealogy links in English (more than 12,700 links). https://moonswings.files.wordpress.com/2017/11/genealogy-on-facebook-list-nov-20171.pdf

These U.S. and worldwide groups, organized by an alphabetical table of contents, can help us join Arkansas groups and others from relevant locations needed to help solve family history mysteries. We can easily learn about unknown resources and research facilities, and collaborate with others.

Arkansas Group Sample

Here is a sampling of groups listed under “Arkansas.” Some are listed by county, but some concern topics like Arkansas military history or cemetery preservation.
ARKANSAS

239. Abandoned Arkansas: facebook.com/AbandonedArkansas
240. Arkansas & Missouri History: facebook.com/groups/234039950342068
241. Arkansas County, AR - Grand Prairie Historical Society: facebook.com/grandprairiehistory
249. Arkansas Historical Association: facebook.com/pages/Arkansas-HistoricalAssociation/131177800261174
253. Arkansas Ozarks Genealogical Society: facebook.com/groups/244348612282534
265. Columbia County, AR Histories & Genealogies: facebook.com/groups/1499639616988509
266. Craighead County, AR Genealogical Society: facebook.com/GSCCA
267. Fulton County, AR Genealogy: facebook.com/FultonCountyARK
269. Garland County, AR - Hot Springs Old Photos: facebook.com/groups/550922781712157
271. Johnson County, AR Historical Society: facebook.com/JCHS.HeritageCenter
272. Lawrence County, AR Historical Society: facebook.com/Lawrence-County-Historical-Society-Arkansas145219285534127
275. Northwest Arkansas Cemetery Preservation Group: facebook.com/groups/177348508986521
Family History Topics and Groups

Throughout the larger list, many useful topics such as Civil War, lineage groups, adoptions, old photos, and genealogy bloggers are identified in addition to locations.

Some Facebook groups are informational only and are not designed for collaboration. But it’s the collaborative ones throughout the entire list (not just Arkansas) that may help us most. A standard way to use many of these groups for Facebook members is first to ask to join by going to the group page. After being notified of acceptance, we may usually then post queries for assistance by group members, many of whom are either local themselves or knowledgeable about local resources. Many genealogists are in these groups, too. The collaboration involved here enables many research tasks to be accomplished at once. (Note: Some Facebook groups are more active and responsive than others.)

How the Groups Work

After posting a query, be available for notifications and questions in case group members need more information about your person or topic. Be sure to share the key facts already gathered so that other researchers don’t undertake redundant research. Avoid posting private information about living people by mistake. Put family surnames in capital letters. Keep in mind that if you need to post a private clarification or message to someone in the group who is helping you, you can easily do that by using private Facebook messaging or switching to email. (We must also remember to observe copyright laws while on Facebook when posting information and photos.) You may arrange notification settings from Facebook to meet your needs – seeing more or fewer. There are now Facebook links that you may automatically incorporate into family trees, such as at Ancestry.com. This demonstrates Facebook integration into genealogy.

The reciprocity of assisting other researchers after they have helped us is a norm of group use. Researchers often “meet” cousins by posting generic queries about one family line or another in the groups. “I’m looking for Brutons, Woolvertons, and Thomases in Michigan.” Facebook is also a useful tool in locating just-discovered living family members (whose family history photos are often included in their Facebook pages). Groups who are doing family research together may set up private Facebook groups where information is shared.

Cautions about Facebook

We are daily presented with news stories about the potential risks of using social media and sharing online. As this newsletter is being completed, Facebook is in the news regarding account privacy issues of around 50 million (of several billion) users. As a result, here’s a much-needed update on Facebook’s privacy settings and tools to keep us safer online: https://newsroom.fb.com/news/2018/03/privacy-shortcuts/
AGS 2018 Fall Seminar

October 19-20, 2018
Benton Event Center, Benton, AR
Keynote Speaker: CeCe Moore

Ms. Moore is Co-Founder Institute for Genetic Genealogy and has worked as the genetic genealogy consultant and scriptwriter for the PBS Television documentary series Finding Your Roots with Henry Louis Gates, Jr. More information will be forthcoming.

Administrative Stuff

Contributions: If you have news for the Ezine, send it! To agscontributions@gmail.com — Thanks!

AGS: To learn more about Arkansas Genealogical Society, visit our website at http:// www.agsgenealogy.org

Subscribe: If you have friends and relatives who would like to receive this ezine, direct them to the ezine sign-up link on our website. Membership is not required to receive the AGS Ezine, but we heartily encourage you to join our wonderful organization! Membership details are on our website.

Comments: If you have suggestions or comments about our ezine, contact ezine@agsgenealogy.org

Un-subscribe: To remove yourself from the AGS Ezine list, click here.

Credit: Items in this ezine are copyrighted by the editors or the author of the piece. If you want to reprint any of the items in this ezine, please give us credit, citing Arkansas Genealogical Society Ezine, (the date), edited by Jane A. Wilkerson.