SPEAKERS

Paula Stuart-Warren, CG is a Certified Genealogist working full-time in genealogical and historical research, lecturing, consulting, and writing. Since 1997 she has been a course coordinator for the Salt Lake Institute of Genealogy, lectured at National Genealogical Society and Federation of Genealogical Societies conferences since 1993 and in 29 states and Canada. A former officer of the Association of Professional Genealogists and Minnesota Genealogical Society board member, she currently serves on FGS' Board of Directors. She has written for Ancestry Magazine, FGS Forum, NGSQ, NGS Magazine, New England Ancestors, Minnesota Genealogist, and is editor of FGS Conference News Blog and Paula's Genealogical Eclectica. Her articles and lectures focus on unusual resources, manuscripts, analyzing records, the Midwest, and Native Americans.

Russell P. Baker, recently retired archivist of the Arkansas History Commission. Mr. Baker is the author of several award winning historical and genealogical publications. For the past 40 years he has lectured on various topics on both the local and national level.

Dr. Daniel Littlefield, Jr., author, lecturer and director of Sequoyah Research Center at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock (UALR). Dr. Littlefield holds a PhD degree from Oklahoma State University and was a classroom teacher for forty-five years.
